

Assistant/Associate/Full Professor of Practice in Depth Reporting

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Journalism and Mass Communications is seeking an open rank professor of practice in depth reporting, with expertise in investigative journalism or data journalism, to join our award-winning program as a Deepe Family Endowed Chair starting in August 2023. Funded by a $4.65 million dollar gift to the college, the Deepe Chairs will oversee our award-winning depth reporting program, where we spend a semester or more working on a single story with high-quality sources, graphics, data and multimedia components. In addition to teaching depth reporting or data journalism courses, the chairs will also teach in our core curriculum; advise student chapters of the Society of Professional Journalists and Investigative Reporters and Editors and travel with students to professional conferences and workshops; contribute to the development of our curriculum; provide service to the college, university and profession; and other assigned duties.

Minimum qualifications include a bachelor's degree in journalism, mass communications or a closely related field and professional expertise in data journalism or investigative reporting. Preferred qualifications include a master's degree in journalism, mass communications or a closely related field and experience covering stories in diverse communities.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Journalism and Mass Communications is accredited by the ACEJMC and offers majors in advertising and public relations, broadcasting, journalism and sports media and communication. We create a student-centered environment providing hands-on experiences to enhance learning outcomes. Students are successful in national competitions, collaborate on research and complete internships with recognized agencies and companies in leading markets.

Employment begins in August 2023. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2022 and continue until the position is filled or the search is closed. To be considered for the position, go to <https://employment.unl.edu>, requisition F_220121 and click "Apply to this job." Complete the information form and attach a letter of application; a detailed curriculum vita that includes information on education, experience and qualification; and a list of three references with complete contact information.

As an EO/AA employer, qualified applicants are considered for employment without regard to race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status and/or political affiliation. See <https://www.unl.edu/equity/notice-nondiscrimination>.

College of Journalism and Mass Communications

147 Andersen Hall | Lincoln, NE 68588-0442 | 402.472.3041
journalism.unl.edu